how can i go back to normal windows 11 ?

tuancvp125 commented last month with a slmgr /xpr, it says "activation en volume expirera le 18/03/2025": what to do after that?

After 6 hours, there's just an only way that you have to do a clean install to downgrade from pro to home. My machine already had a permanent version, fool me. This is a totally a scam, not recommend to follow these steps    !!! solution in case u dont know what to do...

Windows 11 is the latest version of Microsoft's operating system. Although it was initially planned as an aesthetic and functional improvement over Windows 10, Microsoft decided to launch it as a new version in October 2021.

Windows 11 removes some features from Windows 11 while adding and improving others. The taskbar has a more minimalist design with centered icons. The start menu was simplified to show the most used apps and new installations. The search is faster, and you have a new Widgets section to view news, weather, and the stock market.

Thank you for this informative guide. I moved from Home to Enterprise seamlessly. Though I am not sure it went straight to Enterprise but so long as there is no restrictions I am good. Thank you once again

Be aware, this activation will expire in 180 days. Then you'll have to reactivate windows 11 pro with a key or reinstall windows 11 home single language.

Windows 11Pro has an entirely new design. Microsoft needs a good reason to reverse its past claims and ditch Windows 10 by introducing a new operating system number. And a completely new design is excellent for that.
